Tesla to launch $3k 'affordable' powerwall to bolster solar options - miles ===== Quequau For what it's worth... I just got back from touring through the residential solar companies in the area I live in, and some of them are offering the Powerwall for just north of $3,000. One of the places I visited offers a $2,000 state rebate (I can't remember exactly what was offered) and a solar plus battery system for $5,000. The installers (who are run by a solar coop) pretty much told me "trust us" for price and they'll do the install and warranty the solar system. I checked with another installer, however, and I was told to expect a slightly higher quote. I've considered getting into solar power but am a bit skeptical of the technology. To be fair though I have zero experience in this. From what I gathered, if it is more expensive it's because of the battery system (which would put some of the savings on the list of concerns). ~~~ Retric I think it's simpler to think of it as a small battery system + a utility billing option. The hardware is very simple, a 6V / 6Ah battery on the roof for $3k and a CSA(Non-Grid Connector Accreditation) installer vs an AC installer is worth $10K. A battery system is the one last piece of solar anyone needs. You can get it for under $2k installed when one removes the rebates on the battery, which is often worth the $3k even before the rebates. ~~~ Quequau That is an excellent point. Thank you for the insight. ----- minthd I don't understand why solar/wind power is a

Total Recorder Editor For PC

KeyMacro is an innovative system for recording and playing back keyboard and mouse actions. It is the only program capable of recording actions on the Windows desktop - no software driver required. Record actions by mouse, keyboard, pen, or combination of all 3, on any application. And, playback any actions recorded. Perfect for practicing! KeyMacro lets you record any action performed on your Windows desktop. You don't need a special keyboard - just your regular one. Just launch KeyMacro and begin. You can record all mouse actions and keyboard strokes, including mouse clicks, keyboard presses, mouse and pen movements, or screen captures (with your system's screen capture button or software). Your actions are stored as individual macros. You can view macros at any time and play them back by clicking the Playback button. Want more? Now you can even view and play multiple macros simultaneously! KeyMacro's main screen allows you to quickly find the macro you need, then start, pause, stop, edit, delete or show recorded macros. The KeyMacro menu also allows you to change to a secondary screen where you can change the recording medium - recording actions onto a CD, DVD, USB key, or an existing file.
